 Class Matter.

SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 1906.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was

3,960

copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

The March lion soon changed his stripes.

Tufts college follows precedent and the natural course and chooses a Universalist minister for president.

There are two parties who are awaiting expectantly for the cheerful "Yes." They are the doubting lover and the worker for license in Barre.

Judging by the closeness of the vote last year, it will not take many votes to place Barre either in the yes or the no column next week.

It is reported that one of the parties burned out in the great Rutland fire will rebuild of "brick or granite," and Rutland is the great marble center, too.

There's a new way to prevent the practice of ministers marrying minors; it is to fine the ministers a good, round sum. The scheme is being tried out in Jersey City.

It may yet be considered good business methods to go out and buy a side hill pasture anywhere within several miles of Barre with the intention of uncovering a Barre granite quarry.

All but five of the fifty persons committed to the state house of correction during the month of February claimed to be afflicted with some church. Their religion is apparently what they are inclined to make it.

BARRE'S OTHER RIB.

The town of Barre is proud of its financial showing of the past year, and it must be admitted that the figures make very satisfactory reading; for the taxpayers: debts all paid, cash in hand and a probable tax rate of $1.50 for another year. This rib, snatched from the main body, will make the body (which is the city of Barre) hustle to keep ahead in growth and prosperity.
 Having in its boundaries most of the great granite quarries, it has glowing prospects in real estate valuation, and having, also, good farming districts and various villages, it is in a fair way to become one of the largest towns in the state. The town of Barre is already outstripping many other communities which have had years of start. Good for it! We, with only twenty-three ribs, watch the growth of the other rib with interest. Everything that tends to the good of the Town is approved by the City, for the two are really one.

CLEANLINESS IN MILK SUPPLY.

That cleanliness is a virtue in the milk supply of a community is more than ever apparent when one considers the requirements of such a firm as the Van Camp condensed milk company, which proposes to establish a branch at Randolph, provided there is certainty of enough pure milk. The farmer who enters in a contract with the Van Camp company is required to have the milking done in the most cleanly manner, the milk must be strained through a

Fought an Honest Ballot

In 1890 Gov. Carroll S. Page made the following recommendation in his annual message to the General Assembly of the State of Vermont:

"The privilege of every voter to cast his ballot without fear, and subject to no improper influence or espionage, is one of the most sacred rights of American citizenship. That the Australian system protects this right of the voter more fully than any other yet suggested, is conceded. Wherever it has been tried it has become popular. The only important objection to its adoption, that I have heard expressed, is that of expense.

"Vermont cannot afford to be tardy in the adoption of any system having for its end a purer ballot, and believing that no better method has yet been devised to accomplish this, I earnestly urge its adoption."

With what we have learned about the need and practical benefit of this ballot, one would be apt to say that no intelligent Vermonter in public life would have dared to oppose such a recommendation.

Yet we find that when this bill came up for final passage November 25, 1890, Fletcher D. Proctor was one of its strenuous opponents and the practical leader of eighty-seven others who attempted to defeat it.

Thus early began the training in ring methods of a young man at that time just entering public life.

Why did he oppose this bill? Did he and his friends fear the result of an open ballot? Were they afraid it would loosen their hold on the public mind?
 Was it because they foresaw that they could no longer control the political acts of the timid voter?

History does not relate. It does not say why Mr.
 Proctor of Proctor fought the Australian election law.
 It does not tell us why he and his eighty-seven friends attempted to throttle decent legislation for an honest ballot.

And yet we know that the present machine candidate for Governor has been steadily drilled in a school whose strength consists in a clever and systematic circumvention of the public will.

He is now candidate for Governor. He asks the rank and file of Vermont's voters to give him their confidence. Are men so slavishly attached to machine policies safe recipients of the public trust? Are they fit to be perpetuated in public office? Do we care to trust our important offices of reform, retrenchment and reorganization to their tender mercies?

Think it over. It's up to you.
